As for apps, when people are really in a bind, we give them access. [How do I really feel about it? I feel shitty.]

What kind of problem is he having and why does he need access? We should extract a promise NOT to use undocumented behavior.

Thanks.

I'm definitely interested in feedback from customers and pss on the 3.0a q&a booklet. I think it's useful to have the common q&a's in one place. Maybe it's a booklet, maybe it's just a helpme.doc file on the disks. I think it makes for more knowledgable users, too.

I strongly believe we need a network handbook. It's probably something that should be done by the trans team. It might not be there at first ship, but we deparately need it. It could be available spearately.

I have to admit I'm confused about the ref card now. I've seen some nice ones that are little wire-o booklet.
