The ‘094 patent is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

4. Pursuant to 35 U.S.C. § 282, the '094 patent is presumed valid.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

5. This action arises under the patent laws of the United States, Title 35 United States Code, particularly §§ 271 and 281. This Court has jurisdiction over the claim for patent infringement under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1338(a).

6. Personal jurisdiction exists generally over RED HAT because it has sufficient minimum contacts with the forum as a result of business conducted within the State of Texas and within the Northern District of Texas. Personal jurisdiction also exists over RED HAT because it, directly or through subsidiaries and/or intermediaries, makes, uses, sells, and offers for sale, products and/or services within the State of Texas and within the Northern District of Texas, that infringe the '094 patent.

9. Venue is proper in this Court under Title 28 United States Code §§ 1391(b) and (c) and 1400(b).

COUNT I: INFRINGEMENT OF U.S. PATENT NO. 5,873,094

10. RED HAT has been and is now making, using, selling, offering for sale within the United States, or importing into the United States, the JBoss Application Server in conjunction with Project Riftsaw (together the “JBoss Application Server”) that infringes at least claim 5 of the ‘094 patent.

11. By so making, using, selling, offering to sell the JBoss Application Server within the United States, or importing into the United States the aforementioned product, RED HAT has directly infringed and continues to infringe the ‘094 patent, either literally or by equivalents.

12. At least since the serving of the complaint in this lawsuit, RED HAT will have had actual knowledge of the ‘094 patent as a matter of law.

13. Since becoming aware of the ‘094 patent, RED HAT has continued to intentionally, actively, and knowingly both advertise about and sell, or offer to sell, the JBoss Application Server at least through the websites, RedHat.com and/or JBoss.org.

14. Upon information and belief, since becoming aware of the ‘094 patent, RED HAT has intentionally, knowingly, and actively provided continuing support services to end-users of the JBoss Application Server.

15. Since becoming aware of the ‘094 patent, RED HAT’s said advertising, support services, and sales have intentionally, actively, and knowingly contained and continue to contain instructions, directions, suggestions, and/or invitations that intentionally, actively, and knowingly invite, entice, lead on, influence, prevail on, move by persuasion, cause, and/or influence the public, RED HAT’s distributors, RED HAT’s retailers, RedHat.com and/or JBoss.org website users, customers, and/or end users to make, use, sell, and/or offer to sell the JBoss Application

Server, and/or practice the inventions claimed in the '094 patent, and thus directly infringe, either literally or by equivalents, at least claim 5 of the '094 patent.

16. Since becoming aware of the '094 patent, RED HAT was willfully blind, knew, or should have known that its distributors, retailers, RedHat.com and/or JBoss.org website users, customers, and/or end users' acts relative to making, using, selling, and/or offering to sell the JBoss Application Server, and/or using the JBoss Application Server to practice the inventions claimed in the '094 patent, directly infringe, either literally or by equivalents, at least claim 5 of the '094 patent. For these reasons, RED HAT is liable for inducing infringement of the '094 patent.

17. The JBoss Application Server and the components thereof sold, made, operated, and/or serviced by RED HAT constitute a material part of the inventions claimed in the '094 patent and are not staple articles or commodities of commerce suitable for substantial non-infringing use.

18. Since becoming aware of the '094 patent, RED HAT was willfully blind, knew, or should have known that the JBoss Application Server and the components thereof were especially made and/or especially adapted for use in infringing the '094 patent.

19. Since becoming aware of the '094 patent, RED HAT was willfully blind, knew, or should have known that the JBoss Application Server and the components thereof were not a staple article or commodity of commerce suitable for substantial noninfringing use.

20. By selling, offering to sell, or importing into the United States the JBoss Application Server and the components thereof, RED HAT has contributed to the infringement of distributors, retailers, customers, and/or end-users who sell, offer for sale, purchase, make, and/or use the JBoss Application Server, and/or use the JBoss Application Server to practice the inventions claimed in the '094 patent, and thus directly infringe the '094 patent, either literally or by the doctrine of equivalents.

21. RED HAT's acts of infringement of the '094 patent as alleged above have injured BPMS and thus BPMS is entitled to recover damages adequate to compensate it for that infringement, which in no event can be less than a reasonable royalty.

JURY DEMAND

22. BPMS demands a trial by jury on all claims and issues, including all of the Defendant's claims, counterclaims, and issues.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, BPMS prays for entry of judgment:

- A. Declaring that RED HAT has infringed at least claim 5 of the '094 patent.
- B. That RED HAT account for and pay to BPMS all damages caused by the infringement of the '094 patent, which by statute can be no less than a reasonable royalty;
- C. That BPMS be granted its costs, pre-judgment and post-judgment interest on the damages caused to it by reason of RED HAT's infringement of the '094 patents;
- D. That BPMS be granted its attorneys' fees in this action;
- E. That costs be awarded to BPMS;
- F. That BPMS be granted such other and further relief that is just and proper under the circumstances.
