Logical Value

Emotional Value

Individuality, sense, 5 senses, sensitivity, contents and story

As emotions occur between a person and another person/object/environment, they affect decision making or behavior in a complex manner. Although they are subjective and individualized, they can be communicated through sharing and interaction.

Overview of Design Competitiveness Evaluation (DID Evaluation)

■ Background

After product release, there is a lack of internal efforts to examine users' evaluations of design and usability so as to identify items for improvement and to reflect those items in the design of next phase products.
 -- August 2006 Instruction from Executive Team

■ Goal

- Investigate global design competitiveness by evaluating designs of our products and products of competitors in major regions
  1. Review the current level of design competitiveness (to be utilized as business data across the company)
  2. Develop next phase design goals and projects for innovation/improvement
  3. Strengthen internal control standard (Self Inspection)

■ Composition of Evaluation

- Regions: Korea, China (Asia), US (Americas), Italy (Europe)
- ※ Connect major sales regions and overseas R&D centers to calculate a global index

Main Product at Issue (Design competitiveness evaluation — Specialist evaluation)

◆ iPhone

■ Comparison between Samsung Mobile Phone and iPhone

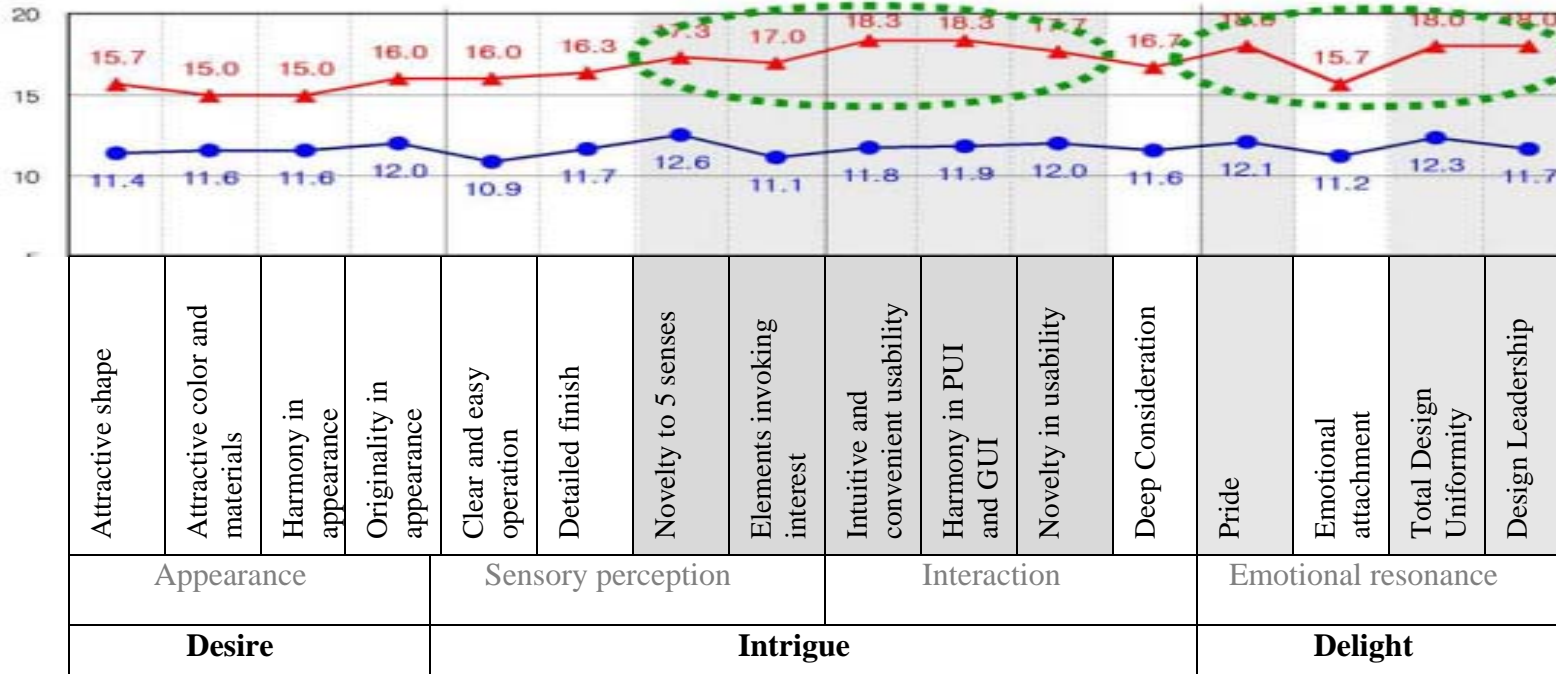

● Average score of our company [Samsung] ▲ iPhone

<Synthesized points of insight>

- iPhone is on average 5.9 points higher compared to Samsung mobile phone
- Intrigue and Delight have higher points than Desire, increasing the total points (The design has simple appearance, but becomes more and more attractive as it is used)
- Out of the evaluation items for Intrigue, Intuitive Usability and GUI/PUI harmony are more than 6 points higher (Implemented using the touch screen method as much as possible)
- Out of the evaluation items for Delight, Total Design Uniformity and Design Leadership are more than 6 points higher than our company's mobile phones

Translation

■ DID Element Evaluation Result

- *The total score is a separate Gestalt item score, not the average per item.
- * Score for appearance etc is a separate item score, not the average per detailed item.
- * This evaluation is the result of evaluation by Korean Designer Specialists.
