I. INTRODUCTION

Pursuant to Western District of Washington Local Civil Rule 5(g), Plaintiff Microsoft Corporation and Defendants Motorola Solutions, Inc., Motorola Mobility LLC, and General Instrument Corporation (collectively "Motorola," and together with Microsoft, the "Parties"), respectfully move the Court to maintain under seal the unredacted original version of Exhibit I to the Declaration of Andrea Pallios Roberts in Support of Motorola's Motion to Preclude Microsoft from Relying on New Damages Theories ("Exhibit I"), Dkt. No. 685, which was submitted in connection with Motorola's Motion to File Documents Under Seal in Support of Motorola's Motion to Preclude Microsoft from Relying on New Damages Theories ("Motion to Seal"), Dkt. No. 684.

Since the Motion to Seal, the Parties have agreed to publicly file a version of Exhibit I with only limited redactions. Accordingly, the Parties request that the Court order Exhibit I at Dkt. No. 685 to be sealed and otherwise strike Motorola's now moot Motion to Seal.

The Parties believe that the minimal redactions on page 9 of Exhibit I disclose confidential information that should be sealed in accordance with Ninth Circuit precedent and this Court's prior sealing orders.

II. CERTIFICATION

In accordance with Local Rule 5(g)(3)(A), on May 3rd, 6th and 7th, 2013 Chris Wion (for Microsoft) and Phil McCune (for Motorola) engaged in telephonic and email discussions regarding Dkt. No. 685, which is Sealed Exhibit I to Motorola's Motion to Seal (Dkt. No. 684), and agreed to file with the Court a public version containing only minimal redactions, as proposed herein.

1 III. LEGAL AUTHORITY & ARGUMENT

2 A. Background.

3 Microsoft and Motorola entered into a stipulated Protective Order, which was approved 4 by the Court on July 21, 2011. (Dkt. No. 72.) This Protective Order outlines categories of 5 material that should be maintained in confidence, along with procedures for sealing 6 confidential material when included in documents filed with the Court. Specifically, paragraph 7 1 specifies that:

8 Confidential Business Information is information which has not been made 9 public and which concerns or relates to the trade secrets ... amount or source 10 of any income, profits, losses, or expenditures of any person, firm, partnership, 11 corporation, or other organization, the disclosure of which information is likely to have the effect of causing substantial harm to the competitive position of the person, firm, partnership, corporation, or other organization from which the information was obtained....

12 Id. at 1-2. This information should be marked as “CONFIDENTIAL BUSINESS 13 INFORMATION, SUBJECT TO PROTECTIVE ORDER.” Id. at 2. Additionally, paragraph 14 6 specifies that:

15 (1) Confidential Business Information pertaining to licensing or other 16 commercially sensitive financial information shall not be made available 17 under this paragraph 6 to such designated in-house counsel; the supplier shall 18 designate such Confidential Business Information pertaining to licensing or 19 other commercially sensitive financial information as “[SUPPLIER’S NAME]
20 CONFIDENTIAL FINANCIAL INFORMATION – OUTSIDE ATTORNEYS’ EYES ONLY – SUBJECT TO PROTECTIVE ORDER” and promptly provide a redacted version of such document that may be disseminated to the two in-house counsel designated under this paragraph 6....

21 Id. at 4. Finally, Paragraph 2 of the Protective Order governs the sealing of documents, and 22 states in relevant part that:

23 During the pre-trial phase of this action, such information, whether submitted 24 in writing or in oral testimony, shall be disclosed only in camera before the 25 Court and shall be filed only under seal, pursuant to Rule 5(g) of the Local Civil Rules of the United States District Court for the Western District of Washington.

1 Id. at 2.

2 Thus, the Protective Order provides that the Parties may request to seal documents by 3 formal motion pursuant to Rule 5(g) of the Local Civil Rules of the Western District of 4 Washington. Local Rule 5(g)(3)(B) requires the Parties to meet the sealing standards through 5 “[a] specific statement of the applicable legal standard and the reasons for keeping a document 6 under seal, with evidentiary support from declarations where necessary.”

7 Similarly, federal law recognizes that courts should protect trade secrets or other 8 confidential commercial information by reasonable means, permitting the filing under seal of 9 documents containing such information. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(c)(1)(G) and (H) (stating that a 10 court may require that (1) “a trade secret or other confidential research, development, or 11 commercial information not be revealed or be revealed only in a specified way” and (2) “the 12 parties simultaneously file specified documents or information in sealed envelopes...”).

13 Though courts recognize a general right to inspect and copy public records and 14 documents, including judicial records, the United States Supreme Court has stated that this 15 right is limited. “[T]he right to inspect and copy judicial records is not absolute. Every court
16 has supervisory power over its own records and files, and access has been denied where court 17 files might have become a vehicle for improper purposes.” Nixon v. Warner Commc’ns, Inc., 18 435 U.S. 589, 598 (1978). In discussing examples of improper purposes, the Court indicated
19 that courts are not to serve as “sources of business information that might harm a litigant’s 20 competitive standing.” Id. Where the material sought to be sealed “includes information about 21 proprietary business operations, a company’s business model or agreements with clients, there 22 are compelling reasons to seal the material because possible infringement of trade secrets 23 outweighs the general public interest in understanding the judicial process.” Selling Source, 24 LLC v. Red River Ventures, LLC, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 49664, *18 (D. Nev. Apr. 29, 2011).

1 As the Ninth Circuit has stated:

2 The law, however, gives district courts broad latitude to grant protective 3 orders to prevent disclosure of materials for many types of information, 4 including, but not limited to, trade secrets or other confidential research,
5 development, or commercial information. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(c)(7). Rule 6 26(c) authorizes the district court to issue “any order which justice requires to 7 protect a party or person from annoyance, embarrassment, oppression, or 8 undue burden.” The Supreme Court has interpreted this language as 9 conferring “broad discretion on the trial court to decide when a protective 10 order is appropriate and what degree of protection is required.” Seattle Times
11 Co. v. Rhinehart, 467 U.S. 20, 36 (1984).

12 Phillips v. General Motors Corp., 307 F.3d 1206, 1211 (9th Cir. 2002).

13 B. The Parties Agree that Good Cause Exists for Exhibit I to Remain Sealed and 14 for a Version with only Limited Redactions to be Publicly Filed.

15 The Parties request that the Court seal the original unredacted version of Exhibit I (see 16 Dkt. No. 685) and permit the Parties to publicly file a version of Exhibit I with only limited 17 redactions.

18 Exhibit I is a copy of Microsoft’s April 12, 2013 Supplemental Disclosures Pursuant to 19 Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(a)(1)(A)(i) and (iii) (the “Supplemental Disclosures”). A 20 redacted version of Exhibit I is attached as Exhibit I-2 to the Declaration of Christopher Wion, 21 filed herewith. Exhibit I-2 includes redactions to only those limited portions of page 9 of the 22 Supplemental Disclosures that are considered by Microsoft to be confidential. Id. The 23 redacted portions of the Supplemental Disclosures disclose confidential business and financial 24 information relating to the relocation of Microsoft’s main logistics and products/software 25 distribution center for the European, Middle Eastern and African (“EMEA”) market from its location in Germany to the Netherlands in spring 2012. Id. This information is not generally known to Microsoft’s competitors, or competitors of Microsoft’s third-party vendors who were involved in the relocation process, and should remain non-public to avoid harm to Microsoft or its third-party vendors.

IV. CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Parties request that the Court order that Dkt. No. 685 remain sealed, approve the limited redactions to page 9 of Exhibit I reflected in Exhibit I-2 attached to the Declaration of Christopher Wion, filed with this motion, and otherwise STRIKE as MOOT Motorola's Motion to Seal, Dkt. No. 684.
